Healthanywhere's, CEO, Pramod Gaur is Recipient of Fourth Annual American Telemedicine Association Industry Council Award For Leadership in the Advancement of Telemedicine

Las Vegas, NV, April 27, 2009 – Pramod Gaur, President & CEO of Healthanywhere, received the Fourth Annual American Telemedicine Association Industry Council Award for Leadership in the Advancement of Telemedicine today at the 14th Annual ATA Meeting & Exposition, held in Las Vegas, NV.

The award, presented to an individual or a company on an annual basis, recognized Gaur for his leadership and championship at local, national and international levels in promoting and advocating for telemedicine/telehealth and e-health. The award is sponsored by Vesalius Ventures, a venture capital vehicle solely dedicated to funding the development of new technologies in order to advance the world of telemedicine.

Pramod Gaur has been a long-time champion of telemedicine and served as the Chair of the American Telemedicine Association Industry Advisory Council from 2005-2006. Gaur is now responsible for bringing to market Healthanywhere's state-of-the art telehealth solutions. Gaur's activities as a telehealth industry advocate include demonstrations to the US Presidential Advisor, US Congress, The White House Conference on Aging and to International Delegates at the United Nations. Prior to joining Healthanywhere, Gaur served as the founding President and CEO of Viterion TeleHealthcare LLC, A Bayer – Panasonic Company. He was responsible for establishing the company's telehealth business from its inception in 2003 to rapidly becoming the industry leader in the United States and abroad. Gaur joined Healthanywhere in 2007.

Healthanywhere is an innovative eHealth & mHealth solutions provider delivering Best in Class patient centric solutions to the global marketplace. Focusing on cutting edge, hardware agnostic technologies applied to the continuum of care, Healthanywhere serves preventative, pre-acute and post-acute patient care models to facilitate remote and interactive monitoring paradigms. Healthanywhere's collective resources represent many years of industry leading experience. In 2007, Healthanywhere became the rebranded name for the technology pioneered by VaaSah. It is now an independent Igeacare Systems Inc. Company, experiencing rapid commercial deployments within North America and abroad.

The American Telemedicine Association is the leading resource and advocate promoting access to medical care for consumers and health professionals via telecommunications technology. ATA seeks to bring together diverse groups from traditional medicine, academic medical centers, technology and telecommunications companies, e-health, medical societies, government and others to overcome barriers to the advancement of telemedicine through the professional, ethical and equitable improvement in health care delivery.

Established in 1993 as a non-profit organization and headquartered in Washington, DC, membership in the Association is open to individuals, companies and other organizations with an interest in promoting the deployment of telemedicine throughout the world.
